“ My Dad, Chuck Inderwiesen and myself, Charlie Inderwiesen knew Arnie through the years, first from Dave and Roxie's fly in in Myakka to him working on his plane at the Myakka Head Airstrip. He even gave me a pair of yellow riding glasses one night at Charollets Web. He was a great person to be around and he will be greatly missed.

I met Arnie 10 or so years ago . We became friends and when he found out I had cancer he told me he would be sorry to see me go. Little did we know that little did we know. I did not think I would be writing this. Rest easy my friend.

“ I have known Arnie most of my life he was my father's best friend growing up he was amazing person with the gray heart I remember him showing me his plane he sure enjoyed doing mechanics he always told me great memories as a childhood and growing up wise. You will definitely be missed give my dad a hug for me while you're up there I'm sure you're up there gossiping about what happened down here you're no longer in pain and you're watching all over your friends and family

I first met Arnie through a mutual friend Rick Berstling. I found out that Arnie had the plane that Rick owned. I fell in love with that airplane the very first moment I layed my eyes on it back in 1997 in Lakeland, Fla. Come to find out it was Arnie that did such a great job in constructing the aircraft. Well I bought it and have it to this day and I will always remember Arnie when flying it. What a great guy for sure, a gentle giant. Arnie will be sorely missed.

If Arnie was your friend you had a friend forever. I met Arnie in 2007 when he lived at the end of my road. I was out walking my pet "wild" pig down the road. He stopped as he was driving by and said " when's the barbecue ". Of course not knowing him and for the love of my "Pumpkin " I shot him a look that could kill. He immediately said he was just kidding and we both laughed. And as it is said the rest is history. Arnie became one of the best friends I ever had. He was always there to help me and make me laugh. We did a lot of things together. I thank God for the privilege of calling Arnie my friend. His love for his family and friends was immense.
I will miss his laugh and his jokes. But mostly I will miss the wonderful friend he was. Till we meet again Arnie. I love you.....
