“ Lucy raised the man that I love and the woman that I'm proud to say is as close as I could get to having a sister. She created beauty and gave happiness to others through her work and her hobbies. The footprint she left on this earth is vast and can be seen in the adoration of her grandkids, the love of her husband and friends and the beautiful art that hangs in many of our homes. Over the nearly 20 years I have known her I can say that on her brightest days and her darkest hours I always saw her smiling. Heaven has definitely gotten more colorful today.
